PRESS RELEASE – For Immediate Release

MJC athletic trainer honored by state-wide association

(Modesto, CA) – Jamie DeRollo, sports medicine instructor and certified athletic trainer at Modesto Junior College, has been selected by the California Community College Athletic Trainers Association (CCCATA) as Athletic Trainer of the Year. She will receive her award during the Honoring Our Own Luncheon scheduled for March 30, 2017 at the California Community College Athletic Association Convention in Concord, CA.

Jamie DeRollo returned home to be a Pirate once again, this time as the head athletic trainer for MJC in August 2016. As a student athlete, she played soccer at MJC, where she discovered the athletic training field and graduated with both Associate of Arts and Associate of Science degrees.

DeRollo completed a Bachelor of Science degree in kinesiology with an emphasis in athletic training at California State University, Fresno, and earned a master's in business administration from South University in healthcare administration. She is currently working on a doctoral degree in athletic training through Temple University.

DeRollo was the women's athletic trainer and then head athletic trainer for San Joaquin Delta College from 2008 until being hired by MJC. She serves as the secretary on the California Athletic Trainers Association (CATA) managing board. She has been a preceptor for University of the Pacific since fall 2010 and enjoys working with athletic training students.

DeRollo is also the chair for Far West Athletic Trainers Association (FWATA) College and University Committee and the Big 8 athletic training representative for CCCATA.

DeRollo volunteered for the World Special Olympics in Los Angeles the summer of 2016. She and her husband, Francis, reside in Riverbank with their son, Francis (11), and daughters, Adrianna (9) and Belladonna (5).

For more information contact Nick Stavrianoudakis, MJC director of athletics, at stavrianoudakis@mjc.edu or (209) 575-6835.
