ASSIST NEXT GENERATION – Delays

Rollout for all AOs was originally slated for February 27. L. Miller received the email below from ASSIST on Tuesday, February 21, 2017. Typically, Summer 2017 changes would be input in the system during February, in time to ensure alignment between the catalog and ASSIST. Hopefully, this setback will be minor.

Good Morning.

We wanted to update you regarding the status of the ASSIST Next Gen rollout.

It has taken longer than anticipated to deploy the system to the new production-ready hosting environment at UCOP and to complete vendor testing. This delay has additionally pushed out the ASSIST team testing of the new environment. As such, we have had to shift the dates for system access.

We noted previously that we are rolling out the system in two stages. Please see below for which users are associated with each stage and the new release dates.

Stage 1: Includes articulation officers who participated as early system testers, CSUCO and UCOP system office staff, and CSU GE, AI and IGETC reviewers

Rollout Date: Monday, February 27, 2017

Stage 2: Wide scale release to all articulation officers

Rollout Date: Monday, March 6, 2017

Thank you for your continuing patience.

Best Regards,

Holly Demé, M.S.W.
