

What's Data Mapping?

In simple terms, data mapping is the movement of data from one point to another.

It's the connecting of data from a source point to a target point where data can be observed and analyzed.